

OLD LADIES AGAINST UNDERWATER GARBAGE

This month's luncheon will feature an amazing group of "Old Ladies" who are helping to clean and preserve Cape Cod's ponds. Their Mission: Swimming to remove trash from ponds, channeling the strength of older women and challenging others to see beyond limits to take concrete action to preserve the environment.

Old Ladies Against Underwater Garbage (OLAUG) was formed in 2017, and its members have been cleaning up Cape Cod ponds ever since. Gathering small teams of swimmers, ages 64 to 85, they sweep along the shallows and dive to pick up beer cans, golf balls, fishing lures, waterlogged dog toys, hats, jackets, shoes, and occasionally a tire, cell phone or box of spent fireworks. OLAUG has been featured in local newspapers, the Christian Science Monitor and Readers Digest, on local and Boston TV stations, and on CBS and NPR.
